Report On

INDUSTRIAL VISIT TO NAPIER MUSEUM,

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, KERALA, INDIA

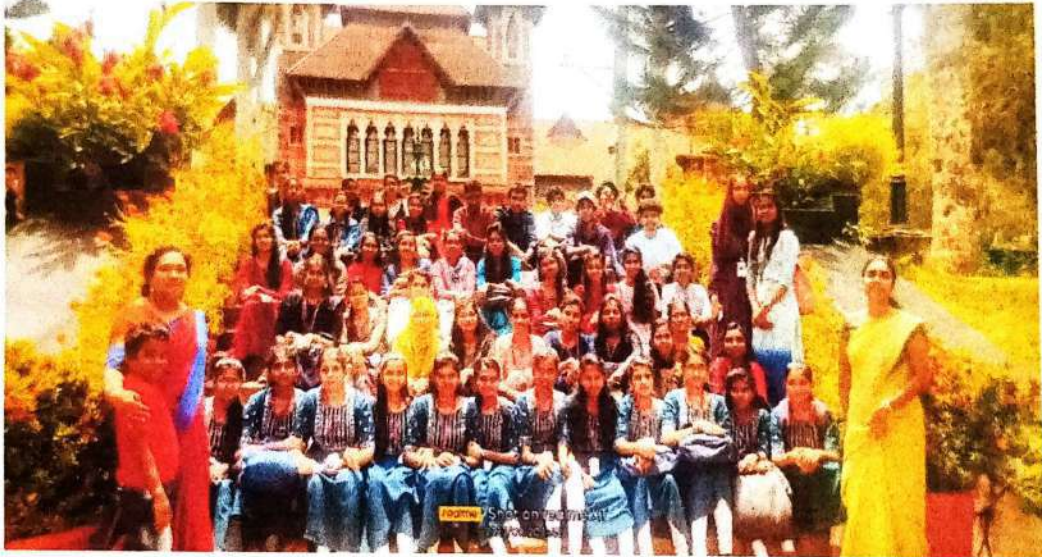

On 20th September 2023

As a part of curriculum the department of Physics organised a one day industrial visit for the UG and PG Physics students to Napier Museum and ISRO Trivandrum. 54 students along with 3 staff members visited the museum on 20th September 2023. The journey to the museum started at 7.30 am on the day. The team reached the centre at 9.0am.

First we visited Napier Museum at 10.00 am after the breakfast. The Napier Museum is an art and natural history museum situated in Thiruvananthapuram, India. The Museum is grounds to the Trivandrum Zoo, one of the oldest zoological gardens in India. The zoo was established in 1857 over 55 acres (220,000 m²) of land. It also contains the Sree Chitra Art Gallery, a separate art gallery established in 1935.

The set of museums, along with the zoo, are managed by the Department of Museums and Zoos, a branch of the Department of Cultural Affairs of Kerala. Some of the building features include a gothic roof and minarets. The Napier Museum, a landmark of the city, is noted for its unique ornamentation and architectural style, which is influenced by Indian, Chinese, Kerala and Mughal Schools of Architecture.

The museum has a bandstand with concealed speakers and special acoustics. In the old days, the band of the Travancore Nair Brigade would play there every Friday. Later, the police band would play on Saturdays. The museum owns a garden which has many varieties of flowers and trees. It also shelters the oldest living rubber tree in Kerala. It was brought there in 1876 from Ceylon and planted in the museum grounds by Visakhram Thirunal.

Built in the 19th century, it has its own natural air-conditioning system. It contains a host of historical artefacts including bronze idols, ancient ornaments, a temple chariot and ivory carvings. People are especially impressed by the Japanese shadow-play leather that is used to depict the epics of the Mahabharata and Ramayana. Kerala's rich cultural heritage is in full display here. The museum was named after the former Madras Governor General, John Napier. Also known as Government Art Museum, the architectural style of museum is a mix of Indian, Chinese, Kerala and Mughal Schools of Architecture.

The museum houses a rare collection of archaeological and historic artifacts, bronze idols, ancient ornaments, a temple chariot and ivory carvings. The Indian epics, the Mahabharata and the Ramayana are the inspiration for the museum's collection of Javanese shadow-play leather puppets.

After the lunch, we visited Vikram Sarabhai Space Centre (VSSC) at Thiruvananthapuram is the major centre of ISRO, where the design and development activities of satellite launch vehicles and sounding rockets are carried out and made ready for launch operations. The centre pursues research and development activities for associated technologies such as launch vehicle design, propellants, solid propulsion technology, aerodynamics, aero structural and aero thermal aspects, avionics, polymers and composites, guidance, control, and simulation, computer and information, mechanical engineering, aerospace mechanisms, vehicle integration and testing, space ordnance, chemicals and materials. Systems reliability and quality assurance of all aspects of engineering and operations are studied and evaluated to the levels of perfection required in each field. Programme planning and evaluation, technology transfer and industrial coordination, indigenization, human resources development, safety and personnel and general administration groups support the centre for all its activities. The Space Physics Laboratory at VSSC carries out research and studies in atmospheric science and other related space science activities. Ammonium Perchlorate Experimental Plant (APEP) at Aluva in Kerala is a part of VSSC.

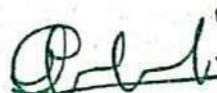

The major programmes at VSSC include launch vehicle projects of Polar Satellite Launch Vehicles (PSLV), Geosynchronous Satellite Launch Vehicles (GSLV Mark II and Mark III), Rohini Sounding Rockets, Space-capsule Recovery Experiments, Reusable Launch Vehicles and Air Breathing Propulsion for Advanced Reusable Launch Vehicles. Due to maintenance of space museum, visitors are not allowed during these days. Finally we left the museum at 4.00 pm and reached the college by 6.00 pm.

Industrial Visit

Date: 26.09.2023

Place: CSIR – CECRI , Karaikudi

Time: 05.00 a.m

Our department of Chemistry organized for an industrial visit on 26.09.2023. 53 students with 3 staff members visited CSIR – Central Electrochemical Research Institute , Karaikudi. They started at 5.00 a.m and reached the Institute at 11.00 a.m. Then they had tea and snacks and entered the Institute. Established in 1953, CECRI, Karaikudi is one of the largest electrochemical laboratories in the world, carrying out R&D work in the area of electrochemical Science and Technology. Three extension centres of CECRI are functioning at Chennai, Mandapam and Tuticorin...

Crossing the security checking, we received the site , guided by the Coordinator of the Electrochemical Unit. The Central Instrumental Facility (CFI) hosts various instruments helping in R&D works. There we viewed many important instruments. Some of them are – 1. Nuclear magnetic resonance spectrometer (NMR) 2. Electron microscope 3. Fourier transformation Infar-red spectrometer (FTIR) 4. Atomic absorption spectrometer 5. Gas chromatography 6. High pressurized liquid chromatography (HPLC). Our students got live demonstration of NMR spectrometer with hands on training form MR. PJ Saikia. At around 4' o clock in the evening , the visit ended with an inspiring speech from P.J Saikia. CSIR is a huge Institute, not only in size but also in technology.

A one day visit is not sufficient to understand everything, but our students definitely got a glimpse, what the Instrumentation is. Afternoon they had lunch. Again the working of the instruments were explained by the workers. The visit is successfully completed. At 4.00 p.m they departed.
